The Canadian Association on Gerontology (CAG) is a national, multidisciplinary scientific and educational association established to provide leadership in matters related to the aging population. A registered Canadian charity, the CAG was founded on October 15, 1971 and is a member of the International Association of Gerontology and Geriatrics.

Our Vision: To be the Canadian authority on individual and population aging.

Our Mission: The Canadian Association on Gerontology seeks to improve the lives of older Canadians through the creation and dissemination of knowledge in gerontological policy, practice, research and education.

Our membership is a dynamic mix of people interested in the field of gerontology including health care professionals, researchers, academics, administrators, government representatives, national organization executives, students and seniors.

CAG members receive a discount on conference registration, in addition to other member benefits.

Minister
of State (Seniors)

Ministre
d'État (Aînés)

Ottawa, Canada K1A 0J9

On behalf of the Government of Canada, I welcome you all to the 41st Annual Scientific and Educational Meeting of the Canadian Association on Gerontology, in beautiful Vancouver, British Columbia.

This year's conference theme – Aging in a Changing World – is quite timely. Now more than ever, we must consider new approaches to how we support Canadian seniors.

This conference brings together leaders and experts of gerontology to exchange knowledge and experience on better serving the needs of the seniors of today and tomorrow.

I am proud to say that the Government of Canada has been ensuring that our policies and programs are responsive to the changing needs of an aging population.

As Minister of State (Seniors), I am especially committed to supporting seniors' quality of life, and I believe their well-being depends on staying active, staying engaged and staying informed.

Much of my work – including my role with the National Seniors Council – offers me the opportunity to talk to seniors and seniors' organizations about issues of importance to Canada's older population. The Council is present at the conference, conducting an interactive workshop. I encourage you all to attend.

I would like to thank the Canadian Association on Gerontology for once again hosting this important event that fosters collaboration and dialogue.

By working together, we can strengthen opportunities for seniors to continue to make contributions to their families, workplaces, and communities.

Best wishes for a productive event!

PERSONAL MESSAGE AND GREETINGS FROM HONOURABLE DR. MARGARET MACDIARMID
MINISTER OF HEALTH

CANADIAN ASSOCIATION ON GERONTOLOGY ANNUAL SCIENTIFIC & EDUCATIONAL MEETING

OCTOBER 18-20, 2012

---

On behalf of the Government of British Columbia, I would like to welcome everyone to the Canadian Association on Gerontology's annual scientific and educational meeting.

This 41st annual meeting focuses on aging in a changing world. In B.C. the number of seniors is expected to almost double to approximately 1.3 million in the next 20 years. The fact that we are living longer is something to be celebrated. However, the changing demographic also presents unique challenges to our communities and our health care system, requiring everyone to adapt and plan ahead.

Here in B.C. we have partnered with local governments and the Union of BC Municipalities to help communities around the province become age-friendly so that they support older adults to live active, socially-engaged and independent lives. To support older people in preparing for future changes, we are developing resources to help people plan for healthy aging.

The Government of British Columbia is building a more accessible, transparent and accountable approach to seniors' care through the seniors action plan. This plan contains specific deliverables to help seniors and their families navigate the health system, easily access information about care options and have a clear and simple way to register complaints. The plan also commits to developing strategies and measures to provide seniors with protections from abuse and neglect.

Thank you to the Canadian Association on Gerontology for the work you do to improve the lives of Canadians. I wish you all a successful and informative meeting.

Sincerely,

Dr. Margaret MacDiarmid
Minister of Health

Addressing Abuse of Older Adults: Connecting the Dots – Front Line Practice, Coordination, Policy and Research (pre-conference workshop)

Date: Thursday, Oct. 18
Time: 7:30am to 4:30pm

Interact with key leaders from across Canada to explore ways to address abuse of older adults, including financial abuse response, coordination at all levels, data collection, best practices, and the needs/issues of people who exhibit abusive behaviour. You are invited to:

- Discuss prevention, identification and response strategies across Canada;
- Share information about practical tools and approaches for front line workers, and opportunities to connect front line practice with other levels of response; and
- Explore possibilities for a pan-Canadian trend analysis of abuse of older adults.

All while inter-weaving inclusion/diversity and vulnerability concepts and approaches throughout the day.

Don't miss this opportunity!

work to address issues facing older adults, visit www.SeniorsBC.ca.

Innovations in Aging: Engaging British Columbians in Solutions for Health Care and Healthy Aging

Date: Friday, October 19
Time: 11:00am to 12:30pm

Hear about three innovative B.C. programs aimed at engaging older adults in health policy, programs and services:

- Patient Voices Network is a unique community of B.C. patients, families, caregivers, and others who wish to use their experiences for positive change to the health care system.
- Connect for Care brings together three internationally recognized B.C. innovations: Tyze Personal Networks, CanAssist at the University of Victoria and PLAN Institute for Caring Citizenship, to connect seniors, families and caregivers, fostering connections and support through technology.
- The Seniors' Directorate is embarking upon a program to develop innovative tools to support older adults in planning for healthy aging.

An opportunity to focus on unique solutions to the challenges of aging in a changing world.

Greetings from the President of CAG

Welcome to Vancouver for the 41st Annual Scientific and Educational Meeting of the Canadian Association on Gerontology. The program planned for this year promises to be stimulating, enlightening and enjoyable, taking place in the most beautiful of natural settings. I would like to acknowledge, and thank, Andrew Wister and his group for their work as the Vancouver Local Organizing Committee.

As CAG's out-going president I want to thank the many individuals who have contributed to putting CAG's financial and organizational house in order. These include but are not limited to: François Béland (Vice-President); Joe Tindale (Secretary-Treasurer during the difficult transition years, and now Margaret Denton), Mark Rosenberg (Editor-in-Chief of the Canadian Journal on Aging who transitioned to journal to Cambridge University Press, and now Margaret Penning) and many others. And throughout, CAG's part-time Executive Director, Anthony Lombardo, has ensured we were on the right path to take us where we needed to go. To the incoming Board – welcome. I look forward to watching the organization go forward and to grow in times when CAG is more important than ever before.

Neena Chappell, PhD, FRSC, President, Canadian Association on Gerontology, Canada Research Chair in Social Gerontology, Professor, Centre on Aging & Department of Sociology, University of Victoria

Greetings from the Conference Chair

The Vancouver Local Organizing Committee welcomes you to the 41st Annual Scientific and Educational Meeting (ASEM) of the Canadian Association on Gerontology. The theme of the conference is Aging in a Changing World. Over the last several years, we have witnessed a number of major shifts in the economic and social fabric of our society. The economic meltdown of 2008 and its rippling effects across the globe; health care reform at the federal, provincial and local levels; the aging of the baby boomers; shifting patterns of chronic disease states, such as dementia, diabetes, mental illnesses and specific cancers; an increasingly diverse older population; and retrenchment of programs and services, are prime examples. In an effort to address these pressing issues and challenges, CAG's 41st ASEM brings together experts from across Canada and internationally to present cutting edge research and knowledge to lead the country into the next phase of individual and population aging.

Attendance at this Meeting indicates resurgence in gerontology and a growing need to expand research, education and practice within and across disciplinary boundaries in a changing world. Vancouver 2012 has been strongly supported by the Simon Fraser University Gerontology Department and Gerontology Research Centre, and many other BC educational institutions and organizations, in collaboration with CAG. All keynote presentations, as well as some sponsored sessions, will include simultaneous translation in English and French.

Registration and Meeting Information

Registration Fees

The registration fee includes the opening ceremonies and the CAG President's Reception, all keynote sessions, your choice of concurrent sessions, refreshment breaks, and lunches on Friday and Saturday, exhibits, one copy of the program book and one name badge. Registration fees do not include hotel accommodation or travel costs. Additional program books are available at a cost of $15.

Registration Kits

Your registration package includes the following:

- Program book
- Identification badge
- Delegate bag
- Promotional materials

To reduce paper consumption, individual abstracts are not printed in the program book. A master abstract book is available for reference at the conference registration desk.

Abstracts are also available online at:
<http://bit.ly/CAG2012prog>
 or by scanning the QR code.

Identification Badge

Your identification badge, included in the registration package, must be worn at all times for admission to the scientific program, refreshment breaks, lunches and exhibits. Replacement badges will be available at the registration desk for $12.

On-Site Registration/Information Desk

On-site registration and general information is available at the Conference Registration Desk located on the Plaza level. The registration/information desk is open as follows:

- Thursday, October 18 13:00 - 18:30
- Friday, October 19 7:00 - 18:30
- Saturday, October 20 7:00 - 16:30

Language of Presentation

All keynote sessions have simultaneous interpretation available in English and French. Oral paper, symposium, and poster presentations will be given in French or English, at the discretion of the presenter. No translation will be provided for these sessions unless otherwise indicated in the program.

Presenters: Loading PowerPoint for Symposia and Oral Sessions

Individuals who are presenting in symposia or oral paper sessions are required to bring their presentation on a USB key to their designated rooms 5 minutes before their presentation to upload their presentations.

SC-CÉ Media Resource Display Fundraiser (Formerly the Student Book Display)

Organized by the Student Connection-Connexion Étudiante (SC-CÉ) of the Canadian Association on Gerontology (CAG), the SC-CÉ Media Resource Display Fundraiser invites delegates to purchase tickets for a chance to win one of our donated books or DVDs. This year our fundraiser includes resources in both French and English. Raffle tickets are on sale during conference breaks for $2.00 each or three for $5.00 until 1:30 pm on Saturday, October 20th. The names of the winners are drawn and posted on Saturday afternoon. Raffle winners can come to the display table to pick up their choice of book or DVD starting at 2:40 pm on Saturday, October 20, immediately following the afternoon keynote session. All proceeds directly support the SC-CÉ and its members. Come out and support the student members of CAG!

Student Poster Competition

The CIHR Institute of Aging is sponsoring the poster competition for graduate and post graduate students. A $500 prize will be awarded by the Institute of Aging in each of the following categories: Master's, Doctoral and Post Doctoral Fellow.

The winners will be announced during lunch on Saturday, October 20. All candidates are expected to attend. Awards will be presented by the CIHR Institute of Aging.

Posters are judged with students in attendance by three judges on the following criteria:

1. Quality of the Research (clarity of theoretical perspectives, method, sample, findings, discussion, limitations)
2. Merit of the Research (validity of conclusions, relevancy to field of aging, potential for application)
3. Quality of Abstract and Content (coherence, logical flow, grammar, spelling, concise abstract)
4. Demonstrated Understanding of the Student (recognition of limits of the study, familiar with research context)
5. Special Merit marks will be awarded for innovative, novel research projects

Show Your Badge Program

Hosted by Tourism Vancouver, this program allows CAG2012 attendees to receive discounts at participating shops, restaurants and tourist sites simply by showing their conference badge. To view a full list of the participating vendors, visit the "Destination Information" section of the conference website or scan the QR code.

ProtoKinetics

In addition to distributing the portable GAITRite system, the ProtoKinetics PKMAS software and Zeno Walkway system captures real time temporal (timing) and spatial (distance) calculations, including the instantaneous center of pressure, along with static and dynamic movements & evaluations. Some of the testing and training protocols include: walking (with or without dual tasking), TUG, Figure 8's, FSST, 360° turns, Fukuda Step Test, side stepping, unilateral and bilateral stability. The traditional Zeno ranges from 2' x 16' up to 2' x 26'; whereas, the wide Zeno's can be 4' x 14'. The wide testing surface and low profile allows for dynamic, real world movements never before available on existing balance and/or pressure plate systems.

Quebec Network for Research on Aging (RQRV)

The mission of the Quebec Network for Research on Aging is to support interdisciplinary research on aging and to promote the maintenance of a critical mass of researchers, help increase overall research capacity, and stimulate the creation of research partnerships in this field. The Network's ultimate goal is to increase knowledge about the biological, clinical, populational, social, and societal aspects of aging. This knowledge can then be used to help promote successful aging, to prevent or delay the expression of the components of frailty and its harmful effects, and to improve the health care and services provided to the elderly.

University of Manitoba, Centre on Aging

The Centre on Aging, University of Manitoba is a university-wide research unit reporting through the Vice-President (Research) to the President. Established on July 1, 1982, the Centre's vision is "To be a recognized leader in research in aging, to improve the lives of older adults, their caregivers and families, and to enhance communities within and outside of Manitoba". The Centre on Aging conducts, stimulates and promotes research on aging, provides an interdisciplinary focus for the research activities in aging at the universities in Manitoba, and supports the teaching of students in aging. The Centre serves as the focal point for the integration and dissemination of research on aging in Manitoba.

University of Toronto, Department of Occupational Science and Occupational Therapy

The Department of Occupational Science and Occupational Therapy at the University of Toronto is dedicated to leadership and has been ranked among the top three programs in North America. This department was the first of its kind for the nation and has produced many of the professions most prominent leaders in education and practice. The role of occupational therapists with older adults particularly in the area of well elderly and fall prevention is supported by strong evidence.

University of Victoria, Centre on Aging

The Centre on Aging is a multidisciplinary research centre at the University of Victoria, with a satellite office in Ladner. Our purpose is to contribute to the body of knowledge in aging under the direction of Holly Tuokko. We conduct research in partnership with seniors and their families, community organizations, health care providers, and various levels of government. We also disseminate knowledge about aging, and provide impetus and direction to the University's aging related activities.

Thursday, October 18, 2012

Opening Keynote Address

What Centenarians Tell Us About Aging (19:30 – 20 :30)

Tom Perls, MD, MPH

Boston Medical Center and Boston University School of Medicine

Dr. Tom Perls is a geriatrician at Boston Medical Center and Associate Professor of Medicine at Boston University School of Medicine. He is also a Fellow of the American College of Physicians. He grew up in Colorado, went to college at Pitzer College at the Claremont Colleges in California and attended medical school at the University of Rochester in Rochester New York.

In 1995, during his training as a geriatrician at Harvard Medical School, Tom founded the New England Centenarian Study, which since then has grown to be the largest study of centenarians in the world. To date, he has published over a hundred articles on the subject of human exceptional longevity and authored a popular book, titled Living to 100 as well as a life expectancy calculator on the internet that receives 5000 visits a day called livingto100.com. Tom is also an outspoken critic of the anti-aging industry and its marketing of toxic hormone soups and messages about growing old. Dr. Perls' work at Boston University is multidisciplinary with multiple collaborations in the areas of genetics, biology, demography, computer science, neuropathology and statistics.

Integrated Care Models: Critical Issues and Innovations (9:30 - 10:40)

Continuing Care as a Critical Component of Integrated Care

Neena Chappell, PhD, FRSC

University of Victoria

Neena received her PhD from McMaster University in sociology in 1978. Since that time she has been researching informal and formal care for older adults; quality of life in old age; aging among Chinese communities in Canada, Hong Kong and mainland China; and health care policy. She has established two world-class university-based research Centres on Aging (one at the University of Manitoba and one at the University of Victoria) and has over 250 academic publications and reports and 9 books. Many awards have recognized her work. She is a tier 1 Canada Research Chair in Social Gerontology, a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada, 'advising professor' at East China Normal University in Shanghai. She has been on the advisory boards of the CIHR Institute on Aging and the Institute for Health Services and Policy Research, the executive of the interim governing council that established CIHR, the advisory board to Health Canada, among others. She is currently president of CAG and of Academy II (Social Sciences) of the Royal Society of Canada.

Prioritizing Home Care: Funding More and Differently

Réjean Hébert, MD, MSc, MPhil

Minister of Health and Social Services, Minister responsible for Seniors, and MNA for Saint-François, Quebec

Réjean Hébert obtained his Doctor of Medicine degree from the Université de Sherbrooke in 1979 and a speciality degree in Geriatric Medicine in 1987. He has also a Diploma in gerontology from the Université des sciences sociales, Grenoble (1981) and a Master of Philosophy in Epidemiology from the University of Cambridge (1994). From 2004 to 2010, he was Dean of the Faculty of Medicine and Health Sciences at the Université de Sherbrooke. He is a Fellow of the Canadian Academy of Health Sciences. He was the founding Director of the Research Centre on Aging in Sherbrooke and the Quebec Research Network on Aging (FRSQ). He was also the founding Scientific Director of the Institute of Aging of the Canadian Institutes of Health Research. He is the Director of PRISMA (Program of Research to Integrate the Services for the Maintenance of Autonomy), a unique consortium of researchers, health care managers and policy makers working on the organization of services for the frail older people. He developed the SMAF (Functional Autonomy Measurement System), an instrument for assessing the needs of people with disabilities. He advocate for prioritizing home care and establishing a public long-term care insurance plan in Canada. He is full professor and researcher at the Research Centre on Aging of the Université de Sherbrooke and advisor for the Quebec National Institute of Public Health. A successful candidate in the September 2012 Quebec election, currently he is Minister of Health and Social Services, Minister responsible for Seniors, and Minister responsible for the Estrie Region.

Still a Gendered Life Course? Work and Family in a Changing World (9:30 - 10:40)

Phyllis Moen, PhD

University of Minnesota

Phyllis Moen holds a McKnight Presidential Endowed Chair and is Professor of Sociology at the University of Minnesota, arriving there in 2003 after twenty-five years as a professor at Cornell University where she held the Ferris Family Chair in Life Course Studies. She co-directs (with Erin Kelly) the Flexible Work and Well-Being Center (located in the Minnesota Population Center), part of a larger research network initiative supported by the National Institutes of Health and Centers for Disease Control to investigate workplace policy initiatives aimed at promoting individual and family health and life quality as well as positive business outcomes. Moen has published numerous books and articles on careers, retirement, health, gender, policy and families as they intersect and as they play out over the life course. Her two most recent books are It's About Time: Couples and Careers (2003) and The Career Mystique: Cracks in the American Dream (2005, with Pat Roehling), which won the 2005 Award for Excellence in Sociology from the Association of American Publishers' Professional and Scholarly Publishing Division and was a finalist for the C. Wright Mills Award. Dr. Moen's most recent (2011) articles (in the American Sociological Review, Journal of Health and Social Behavior, and Social Problems) describe a natural experiment studying the effects of a flexibility policy innovation at a large corporate headquarters in the Midwest. She is interested in new career/retirement paths and previously served on the board of Civic Ventures, a non-profit think tank on boomers, work, and social purpose.

(19:30 - 21:00)

Age, Generation and the Contested Terrain of Social Policy

Victor Marshall, PhD

University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Victor Marshall (B.A. University of Calgary; PhD in sociology, Princeton) is professor of sociology at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and a Senior Scientist at the UNC Institute on Aging, which he directed from 1999-2009. His professorial career began in 1970 at McMaster University, with subsequent professorships at The University of Toronto (where he directed its Institute for Human Development, Life Course and Aging, and CARNET: The Canadian Aging Research Network). He is a founding member of CAG and has served CAG as vice-president, chair of its Research Committee and Social Science Division, and Editor of Canadian Journal on Aging. He received CAG's Distinguished Member and Evelyn Shapiro Mentoring Awards, and CAG selection for the Governor General Queen's Jubilee Medal. He is particularly proud of the many graduate students whom he mentored who have made important contributions to gerontology in Canada. He chaired the Gerontological Advisory Council of Veterans Affairs Canada for 15 years and continues as an advisor to VAC. He has been a member of the Governor's Advisory Council on Aging (N.C.), and served on the executive committees of the Behavioral and Social Science Section of GSA, the Section on Aging and the Life Course of the American Sociological Association, and the Southern Gerontological Society.

Victor's research focuses on workforce aging, the transition to retirement, health, and public policy. He has also published extensively in the analysis of social theory of aging and the life course. His most recent book, edited with Julie McMullin, is Aging and Working in the New Economy (Edward Elgar, 2010). He recently co-edited a four volume collection, Researching Social Gerontology, which will be published by SAGE in November 2012.

This special lecture is supported by the Simon Fraser University Gerontology Department and Gerontology Research Centre.

The State of Seniors' Housing in Canada

Supported by Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation

Chair: Lee King, CMHC Affordable Housing Centre

Plaza Ballroom A,B,C

What does an aging population mean for housing in Canada? What innovations in housing and community design will help meet the challenges ahead? As people age, sudden and significant changes to their health, household composition, or finances can impact housing needs. Successfully accommodating these changes requires a variety of housing types and models. At the building scale this includes housing that integrates support services. On a larger scale, this means community planning that responds to the needs of seniors and enhances their quality of life. Drawing on work from Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC), presenters will provide an overview of research available for academics, practitioners, and the housing industry to make informed decisions on seniors' housing issues. First, a snapshot of senior's housing in Canada provides context for current conditions and outlines the data available to researchers. Second, innovations in house and community design are explored, providing insight into the future of seniors' housing. Third, the challenges and opportunities associated with developing seniors' housing projects are addressed, given the housing affordability issues faced by many communities.

Engaging older adults in the design, planning and delivery of their own health care is paramount to the future success of the Canadian health care system (Health Council of Canada, 2012). This symposium brings together three innovative programs funded by the British Columbia Ministry of Health, aimed at engaging older adults in the development of health care policy, programs, products and initiatives.

- Patient Voices Network (PVN), a community of BC patients, families, caregivers, and others who wish to use their experiences for positive change to the health care system. The PVN was recently highlighted by the Health Council of Canada as a promising practice for patient engagement in Canada.

- Connect for Care, a collaboration between three internationally recognized BC innovations: Tyze Personal Networks, CanAssist at the University of Victoria and the PLAN Institute for Caring Citizenship. Through development of a suite of online tools, Connect for Care establishes web-based networks to facilitate self-managed networks of care. It connects individuals, their families and other informal and formal care givers such that seniors remain as independent and socially connected as possible for as long as possible.

- an investigation by the Seniors Healthy Living Secretariat about the key elements necessary to plan for healthy aging and innovative delivery mechanisms to engage British Columbians to plan for healthy aging.

Research on Public Policy

This symposium will examine how we can make health and social care policy more responsive to the evolving needs of Canada's aging population. As governments are investing in alternatives to hospital and institutional care, they face two major challenges. First, older Canadians require a host of care services that in many cases fall outside the health care system. Second, citizens expect universal access to high-quality care wherever they need it, and many expect comparable standards for long-term home and community care. In this symposium, supported by the Institute for Research on Public Policy and the Health Council of Canada, we will present the opportunities and challenges as governments and providers transform to meet the needs of older Canadians. We will also discuss the expectations and roles of older Canadians and their caregivers.

 Public Health Agency of Canada Agence de la santé publique du Canada	The concept of One Health clearly articulates the linkages between human and environmental health. The changing demographics in Canada add another layer of complexity in terms of optimally addressing the health needs of the population, given the frequency of chronic illness in the aging population and hence vulnerability to environmental exposures. A poignant example of the significance of this is a study by the Canadian Medical Association indicating that there were 21,000 premature deaths in Canada in 2008 due to outdoor air pollution, and associated incurred costs of $8 billion for health care and lost productivity. With Canada's population increases and ages, the number of premature deaths is projected to increase by over 85% (to 39,000) by 2031 if air pollution levels remain at 2008 levels. This session will explore the links between senior's health and the changing environment; current trends; social implications; actions needed at all levels from the local to the global to address these challenges; and the role that professionals can play. Simultaneous interpretation is available.
