Scientific knowledge on mistreatment of older adults

A glass more than half-full!

- Major progress since the 1970's (since Stannard 1973)
- Increasing number of high level publications: systematic reviews, meta-analysis and scoping reviews (mainly since 2010)
 - Definition
 - Prevalence
 - Risks factors (older person, environment/person who mistreats)
 - Effects or consequences
 - Help seeking, reporting

2002 !

WHO definition

- “Elder abuse is a single or repeated act, or lack of appropriate action, occurring within any relationship where there is an expectation of trust which causes harm or distress to an older person.

- Abuse, neglect, violence, mistreatment , maltreatment
- Exclusion, discrimination, ageism, bullying, self-neglect

MIPAA

“to eliminate neglect, abuse, and violence toward older people”

- States the importance of government involvement (110 c) in actions to counter neglect, abuse and violence via policies, services, etc.

A non binding instrument

A photograph of a man with a beard and mustache, wearing a dark jacket, speaking into a microphone. The image is overlaid with a semi-transparent purple filter. Large white quotation marks are positioned on either side of the word "Practice", which is centered in the middle of the image.

Practice

Practice...

Encompasses prevention, identification, direct intervention and coordination

Should include: multidisciplinary teams, helplines, bank use, support for caregivers of older adults at risk of mistreatment and emergency shelters (WHO, 2015).

A systematic review based on eight programs concluded that direct intervention had no effect on reducing mistreatment (Ploeg et al, 2009).

It is said there is not much evidence-based practice to refer to (Moore & Brown, 2017).

What should practitioners do ?

Practice...

Although there are a limited number of evidence-based practices and best practices to counter mistreatment in international literature, professionals and practitioners can use what is available to them (Moore & Browne, 2017).

Necessity of shifting from the ideal of “best practice” to “promising practices”

Necessity of transforming research results in strong training programs and in practice guides

What is a Practice Guide?

A practice guide is a publication that presents recommendations for practitioners. They can be based on reviews of research, the experiences of practitioners, and on expert opinions.

It aims to guide and facilitate the work of practitioners by improving their response to the needs of mistreated older adults ... and persons who mistreats them

What are not practice guides

- Rigid rules or prescriptions
- Replacement of clinical judgement
- Static tools (evolution to integrate the state of practice and scientific knowledge)

They need adaptation to practice context and culture

Practice Guides

Ethical and Psychological Issues Raised by Practice

WHAT

Better understanding the effects of the complexity of cases of mistreatment of older adults on practice

WHEN and HOW

- Early 2000: social workers, psychosocial practitioners
- Mid-2000: police, victim resource centres, Public Curator, etc.

KEY FINDINGS

- Balance between autonomy and protection
- Need for better understanding how to evaluate the type of intervention to provide
- How to capture the evolution of a case in order to adjust intervention
- Need for better support by the organisation (loneliness)
- Need for decision making tools (not psychometric ones)

Framework

Team Work in Countering Mistreatment of Older Adults

WHAT

Document the issues related to working in a collaborative approach

WHEN and HOW

- 2011-2015: Inter-agency team in Montreal

KEY FINDINGS

- Collaborative work often relies on the knowledge of a person in another agency (informal approach more than structured approach)
- Need to understand the scope and the limits of the practice of each agency
- Need, in certain cases, to form teams to better intervene
- Need to document a team work that is seen as efficient by a majority of actors

Police Intervention in Cases of Mistreatment of Older Adults

WHAT

Develop a police intervention model based on existing practices and innovation

WHEN and HOW

- 2013-2016: Montreal Police Department
- Literature review, inventory of Canadian practice, Inventory of Montreal practice, needs study, partner's study, pilot project (evaluation) and implementation

KEY FINDINGS

- No unique model
- Privilege contact with older adults (prevention, in intervention situations)
- Need of a basic knowledge for all police officers
- Need of champions
- Needs of an active commitment by all levels of administration
- Police can not work in a silo

Hinderers and Facilitators to Help Seeking – Mistreatment and Bullying

WHAT

How could we improve sensitization activities to reduce hinderers and increase facilitators to help seeking ?

WHEN and HOW

- 2014-2019 : DIRA-Estrie (Non for profit organisation specialised in mistreatment of older adults)
- Several data collections: critical analysis of sensitisation activities, more than 450 older persons in FC or face-to-face questionnaires, content validation of the practice guide by several partners

KEY FINDINGS

- Understanding of similarities and differences between mistreatment and bullying
- Identification of hinderers and facilitators – target or witness
- Different needs : persons who prepare the content of activities, persons who facilitate the activities

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Reaching one's personal limits (intolerable situation). • Awareness of mistreatment and available resources (ability to recognize mistreatment, knowing one's rights, the actions required and the available support services). • Access to quality support and accompaniment services (services that are professional, confidential and respectful of a person's rhythm and that lead to a trusting relationship). • Personal characteristics (having the ability and strength that are required to ask for help). • Desire to regain power over one's life. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Awareness of mistreatment, of the situation and the available resources (enough awareness to ask for help). • Beliefs and values (feeling of injustice and of the need to help others). • Perception of the seriousness of the situation (intolerance of the situation; vulnerability of the person who is targeted; wanting to prevent the situation from escalating).
